

F2FGaming Announces Release of Tunguska Gaming Service

F2FGaming Releases Its Proprietary Internet Board gaming Service, Tunguska, on the Eve of the 2005 World Boardgaming Championships

Las Vegas, Penn, August 1, 2005 – F2FGaming, Inc., a startup Internet gaming company, is pleased to announce the release of its proprietary board gaming service, Tunguska. In connection with this first release, the company is offering the service for free to all users for the first 30 days of operation. After 30 days, the monthly fee for the service will be less than $10 USD, for unlimited gaming.

The Tunguska application allows users to communicate with other gamers through private conversations or public meeting rooms. Users can use Tunguska to find opponents and play games online. Text communication is available between the players as they are playing the game.

F2FGaming has partnered with Columbia Games. The first game release is Columbia's popular Hammer of the Scots. The game components and play are as close to the tabletop board gaming experience as is possible over the Internet.

The Tunguska application and software is built on Microsoft's .Net Framework with Coversant's SoapBox Server as the infrastructure's backbone. System requirements for this service are the minimum required to run Microsoft's .Net Framework 1.1 and the bandwidth necessary to run any popular instant messaging program.

More information on the Tunguska gaming service is available at the Tunguska page on the company's Web site, <http://www.f2fgaming.com>.
